

The Scottish Manor

Chicago magazine & Chicago Home+Garden 2008 Showhouse

To learn more about Phantom's retractable screen solutions, go to www.phantomscreens.com.

 PHANTOM
SCREENS

True to you. Pure Phantom

Photography: Linda Oyama Bryan

The Scottish Manor

Chicago magazine & Chicago Home+Garden
2008 Showhouse

Location:	Tarns of the Moor, Bannockburn, IL, USA
Square Footage:	8,700 sq. ft.
Completion:	April 2008
Builder/Design Team:	Orren Pickell Designers & Builders
Products contributed by Phantom Screens:	Double-French and single Phantom door screens
Brand name of the installed product:	Phantom Door Screens®
Mesh type:	18/14 Insect Mesh
Mesh color:	Charcoal
Product details:	40% sun control / UV blockage and 58% openness
Installer:	Interior Tectonics, LLC, Authorized Distributor of Phantom Screens, Chicago, IL.

Overview: Located at Tarns of the Moor, Bannockburn, Illinois, the Scottish Manor is the latest concept home by Orren Pickell Designers & Builders (OPDB). The building embraces two distinct and magnificently detailed living spaces – one elegantly refined and the other evoking an old-world highland castle, complete with stone walls and large-scale fireplaces.

Need: The builders needed to find screen solutions for several sets of doors throughout the house that would provide insect protection while blending with the unique design of the home.

Solution: It was important for OPDB's design team to specify a screen solution that would be suitable for several double-French doors throughout the building. The luxurious interior style and finishes dictated the selection of screens that would retract out-of-sight and not stand out on the door frames. Phantom's screens retract into their housings, and can be custom-matched to any interior and exterior color scheme, thereby providing a screen solution to all doors that needed screening. All installed screens were specified in custom colors to blend into the window clad color in order to avoid distracting from the overall aesthetics and old world theme of the home.

True to you. Pure Phantom.